FACTS ABOUT WAR

Questions About Lost Battalion Answered in Book Sold by Legion

Did Lieut Col C W Whittlesey commander of the famous 'Lost Battalion' send a reply telling the German commanding officer to 'go to h—' when asked to surrender while he and his men were trapped in the Argonne Forest or was that one of the popular myths that filtered back to the United States during the World War

What really happened to the famous Lost Battalion and what the boys over there thought about during those dull drear days of the war is clearly recorded in Buck Private McCollum's book History and Rhymes of the Lost Battalion' now being sold here by Bird McClunis Post No 16 American Legion

The books are being offered here by the local post for the purpose of raising funds to help pay off the debt on the Legion Dugout The book is now reported to be in its six hundredth thousand

ON GUARD

—to Defend the City—

The guard upon the city wall, in days of knights and castled towns had to be alert. His the responsibility for the lives and safety of town from foes' attack.

The modern city has its foes—hidden, unseen enemies that walls of stone can not keep out—Bacteria. But nowadays each home is guarded — not just the city wall. That guard is modern sanitation and scientific sterilization of our city's water supply. Modern and efficient Health Departments see to this in every town; and how effective is that guard is shown in the one fact, alone, that typhoid fever death rate has been lowered by some 89%.

No water is safe for human use that does not undergo daily analysis Here in Marion the expert analysts keep guard in the modern laboratory of the Marion Water Company

ANNUAL SERVICE SET FOR SUNDAY

Missionary Thank-Offering Arranged at Prospect Street M. E. Church

The annual Woman's Foreign Missionary Thank-offering service will be held at the Prospect Street M. E. church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, with appropriate services in charge of Miss Freda Wanner, president of the society and chairman of the program committee. The organ prelude will be played by Miss Mary Ellen Kerr, with prayer by Mrs. Caroline Shambaugh. The Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of the church will deliver a Thank-offering message, "Some Hindu Customs," which will be followed by the receiving of the Thank-offering. Mrs. K. W. Patow will present a vocal solo.

At the evening church service a chorus of 20 men's voices will render a special program in connection with the fourth in a series of sermons on the parables of Jesus, "The Treasure in the Field."

PRIEST GIVES ENTIRE TIME TO LECTURING

Rev. C. A. Keith, Coming Here May 5, Is an Authority on Catholic Services

So successful was the Rev. George A. Keith, S. J., in the presentation of the "Sacred Love Story of the Mass" that his superiors in the Jesuit order recently relieved him of all other assignments that he might devote his time exclusively to his lecture-story.

Father Keith will appear here Sunday night, May 5, under the auspices of the Catholic Federation of Women's Clubs. The event will be held in The Star auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Father Keith, former dean of men at the University of Detroit, has been giving his presentations for a number of years and is considered in Catholic circles an authority on the mass, the principal service in the Catholic church.

With his lecture Father Keith presents 200 dissolving views in colors. These views deal with the mass, the ordination of a Catholic priest and the principal events in the life of Christ.

GOING TO BEREA

Local Pastor Will Attend Annual Meeting of Conference

The Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of the Prospect Street M. E. church, will leave here Tuesday to attend the annual meeting of the Central German Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at the Emmanuel Methodist church in Berea, O., April 30 to May 2.

Prominent ministers in the conference will deliver addresses, The Rev. Mr. Patow expects to return Friday night.

At 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night Dr. J. Stowell will lecture on "World Service Goals." Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock Dr. J. W. Huber will open the meeting with a sermon, "The Imminence of the Holy Spirit in Evangelical Preaching," followed by an organization and business meeting and round table discussion, lead by Dr. Stowell. Sessions will be held at 2 o'clock and 7:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and night, with a program of the same hours carried out Thursday.

Church News • • • Told in Brief

Christian Contemplation

A SERMONETTE

BY THE REV. KARL W. PATOW
Pastor, Prospect Street M. E. Church

"Set your affection—not on things on the earth."—Col. 3-2.

APPARENTLY Paul has observed how readily men are attracted to, have become interested in, and have given their mind, their thought, their attention, their time and energy to mere material things. Things became the objects of their affection. To the mind of the Apostle this is degrading. It is not the ideal attitude of mind for a Christian to have. It is passing from the sublime to the commonplace, and from the eternal to the temporal.

The "things on earth" have their place and purpose, and are to be used by man, and are for his service, but a Christian is not to become unduly attracted to them. His dominating interest and concern is not to be in the material "things on the earth." A few reasons therefore are:

1. Things are beneath the dignity of man. Man is the crown of creation. He can think, and plan, and choose, and love as no other creature. Nothing in creation has the intelligence and dignity to compare with that of man. And it is unbecoming and degrading to worship, or to have undue affection for that which is beneath us.

2. Things cannot satisfy man. Men of every age, and race, and tribe have had religion of some type. Whenever, and wherever men have lived, deep in the soul of man there has always been a sense of need; a feeling of awe and adoration which has induced him to be a worshiper. And "things on earth" can never satisfy the soul with this God given instinct.

3. Things are inconstant, or unabiding. "The world passeth away." All things are constantly subject to decay. Nothing that we have and hold, can we have and hold forever.

4. Things divert our thought from heaven and duty. After all, things are very real to us. Often they are also very attractive. They demand our time, thought and energy. Unless we be on our guard they will demand all of our time, thought and energy, and will totally crowd out all the nobler qualities of our being which make for greatness and beauty of life and character. Consequently our souls will shrivel and shrink, and we will become selfish and small, not to say low and mean and vulgar. To save ourselves from perishing thus, we dare not set our affections on "things on the earth."

5. If we set our affections on things only we will be doomed to disappointment. Let it suffice if I merely remind the kind reader of the rich farmer in the Gospel narrative, and of the story of Dives and poor Lazarus. A word to the wise is sufficient.

6. We have better things provided for us. Thank God, there is something that is abiding, uplifting, and eternal. God himself is eternal. He is good, He is a wonderful friend and helper. Blessed are we indeed if we remember and keep the first and greatest commandment, and love the Lord our God with all our heart and soul and mind, and with all our strength. His promise to us is: If we are not ashamed of Him, He will not be ashamed of us. If we confess Him, He will own us. If we set our affections on Him and are truly His, He will some day say to us: "Come ye blessed of my Father and inherit the kingdom I have prepared for you."

Visiting Priests Will Have Part in 40-Hour Devotion Service at Local Church

16 To Attend for Participation in Solemn Close and Procession; Forty-Hour Period of Prayer Arranged To Begin at St. Mary's Edifice Sunday Morning

Forty Hours devotions, so called because for a period of 40 hours continuous prayers are said before the exposed Blessed Sacrament, will begin Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church.

At the beginning of the 40-hour period a solemn high mass, or a Mass of Exposition, is sung, and at the close of the period, the Mass of Reposition is sung. Both masses are accompanied by a procession of the Blessed Sacrament. The procession on the closing day may be postponed, the Rev. Father William J. Spickerman said today, until the services at night. On Monday a Solemn high mass "For Peace" will be offered at another altar from the High Altar on which the Sacrament will be exposed.

A Dominican Father from Columbus will assist at the solemn mass opening the Forty-Hour service and the Rev. William C. Welch, of Bellefontaine, and the Rev. John Kelly, of LaRue, will assist on Monday and Tuesday.

At the Solemn close and procession Tuesday night, 16 visiting priests from Cincinnati, Hamilton, Dayton and nearby cities will attend.

The order of services will be as follows:

Sunday, 9:30 a. m., Solemn Mass of Exposition, 11 o'clock, Mass of Day at Side altar; Monday, 6 a. m., Exposition of Blessed Sacrament, low mass and Holy Communion; 8 a. m., Solemn High Mass "For Peace," Holy Communion and adoration of the Blessed Sacrament; 7:30 p. m., solemn benediction; Tuesday, 6 a. m., Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament, low mass and Holy communion; 8 a. m., Solemn High Mass of Reposition, Holy Communion and Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament; 7:30 p. m., Solemn Close and Solemn procession

Forty altar boys and members of the Board of Church Wardens, 16 visiting priests, fourth degree members of the K. of C., will be in the procession closing the Forty Hour Devotions service.

GIRL EVANGELIST TO VISIT MARION

Will Conduct Two Weeks' Series of Meetings at Calvary Church

Miss Edna Beougher Hughes, "girl evangelist" of Lancaster, O., will come to Calvary Evangelical church Sunday to open a two weeks' evangelistic campaign closing May 12. Miss Hughes' series of services will be the second conducted at Calvary church this season.

The young woman began preaching when she was 11 years old, and according to notices, has a straight-forward manner of talking and is fearless and forceful in her renunciation of sin and vice.

Duets, solos, and quartets, in addition to music by the choir, will be featured in the services Sunday night. Sermon topics for both morning and evening services have not been announced.

LUTHERANS TO HOLD TWO-DAY MEETING

Marion County Will Be Represented at Conference in Bryan

Representatives of a score of counties in western Ohio including Marion county will attend the ninth annual convention of the Western Conference, Synod of Ohio, United Lutheran Church in America, which will be held in First Evangelical Lutheran Church, Bryan, of which Rev. J. E. Zimmermann is pastor, on May 6 and 7.

The devotionals will be under the direction of Rev. J. A. Schofer, Hicksville, Rev. A. A. Hundley, D. D., Oak Harbor, and Rev. T. A. Estell, North Baltimore. The work the Synod is doing in the state and Luther's Small Catechism, the 400th anniversary of which is now being celebrated, are among the subjects to be discussed.

Speakers will include Rev. J. Sittler, D. D., Columbus, president of the Ohio Synod, Rev. J. S. Herold, D. D., Columbus, superintendent of Ohio missions, and visitor here on many occasions, Rev. A. C. Bell, D. D., Toledo, Rev. B. E. Fisch, Th. D., Springfield, Rev. F. W Rohlfing, D. D., Lima, Rev. S. K. Strause, Holgate, Rev. G. D. Busch, Toledo, Rev. R. M. Smith, D. D. Wapakoneta, Rev. T. P. Laughner, Convoy, Rev. J. E. Zimmermann, Bryan, and G. L. Hinkliff, secretary of the laymen's movements.

The conference sermon will be preached by Rev. G. W. Miley, of Toledo, the conference president.

Other officers of the conference, in addition to Rev. Mr. Miley, are Rev. James A. Miller, Toledo, secretary, J. M. Longanbach, treasurer, and E. J. Welling, Toledo, member of the Synodical executive committee. The conference is one of a series of four to be held over the state in May.

ENDS REVIVALS

Final Evangelistic Service To Be Held Sunday at Oakland Church

The three weeks evangelistic services at Oakland Evangelical church which have been conducted by the Rev. H. A. Frye, of Findlay, will be brought to a close Sunday. About 50 responses have been made to the altar calls and it is especially for this group that the evangelist has chosen his sermon topic for services at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, "Rejoicing After Conflict."

The Ohio Conference Male Chorus, composed of 30 voices, all ministers of the Evangelical faith, will sing at the church Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The public has been invited to attend this meeting.

LEADERS NAMED

Will Have Charge of Emmanuel Baptist Church Canvass

An "Every Member" canvass will open April 28 at Emmanuel Baptist church and continue through May 5, the Rev. S. F. Porter, pastor, announced today. The territory to be covered has been divided into four separate divisions, with leaders over each unit. These leaders may appoint their assistants from the territory they are to canvass.

The division of the territory has been as follows: Division No. 1, all territory north of Fairground st., Fairview st., leaders, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Chase and Mr. and Mrs. D. Orahood; division No. 2, all territory north of Fairview st., Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hughes; division No. 3, all territory south of Fairground st. and west of North Main st., leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Z. W. McClung; division No. 4, all territory south of Fairground st. and east of North Main, leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Greenwood.

All out-of-town members of the church will be reached by correspondence.

County Methodist Meeting To Be Held Here Friday

Friday a county group meeting of the Womans Foreign Missionary societies of the M. E. churches and an all-day Methodist meeting of county churches will be held at Epworth M. E. church.

About 75 ministers, delegates and visitors are expected to convene at the church. Meetings of this kind will be held in each county during the spring. Primarily, they are set aside for the W. F. M. S., but the ministers and church groups take the opportunity of meeting at the same time.

Dr. H. E. Armacost, district superintendent of the church, will preside at the meeting and at 11 o'clock D. N. Kelly, pastor of First Methodist church at Bellefontaine, will preach.

A program of special interest to everyone attending has been planned according to advance announcements.

BEGG'S SON KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Hits Telephone Pole at Stratford and Goes into Olentangy

Davis, Delaware motorcycle patrolman speeded through Delaware and failed to stop for a red light Davis gave chase

The officer charged that the roadster reached a speed of more than 60 miles an hour before it left the city limits here He said he followed the car until the outskirts of Stratford when trouble with his motorcycle forced him to stop

As he started to repair it Sheriff Veley Mann he said came along The sheriff also was following the roadster Davis got into the sheriff's car and when they reached the other end of Stratford they found the car in the river with the occupants strewn over the scene

Davis said he immediately searched the car and found a liquor bottle in it A few drops remained in the container he declared The policeman said he had this bottle in his possession today and that several witnesses would swear that he took the article from the partly submerged car

All three were students at Kenyon college at Gambier near Mt Vernon They were visiting a local fraternity house yesterday afternoon

Davis declared he had received several complaints that the roadster was violating the speed limits He also charged that Sheriff Mann had made a trip to Sunbury near here yesterday afternoon after he had received a report that three youths in a roadster parked along the Sunbury Delaware pike were drinking The car bore the same license number as the auto which Begg was driving

Adkins the only one to escape uninjured was questioned by police He stayed at a fraternity house last night

The car which young Begg was reported to have been driving at the time of the accident was the property of Leonard Dodge another Kenyon student according to police Dodge had lent the car to the youths

Congressman Begg father of the youth is one of the most prominent figures in Republican state politics He was a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in the state primaries last year but was defeated by Myers Y Cooper now governor

Sheriff Mann announced he would conduct a further investigation into the tragedy today

The concluding number in group one was an interesting sketch of the troubles of a small boy told by himself The title of the selection was "Small Boy's Troubles given by Ilwin Tims of Prospect winner of the second award in group one

Preceding the second group the Martel Twins thrilled with "Stars at Summer Night" Woodlawn and Street Urchins Medley

The first speaker in the second group Dolores Imboden of Agosta won the first award in that group by speaking Gee Whiz. The subject of the boy perturbed as he was on his way to get the plumber was cleverly done especially the way he scratched his head to remember what he was going for

Sister Caroline's Speaking given by Brooks Flemm of Prospect very cleverly showed the efforts of a sister who was taking elocution lessons on the rest of the family to the despair of her small brother

Warren Finson of Caledonia gave as his address Evil Wishes the Wishes a human talk portraying how many different things a small boy could think of to get out of washing dishes and how ready he did them when promises for a new car in the family came to his ears

Vivian Likens of Kirkpatrick last speaker in the program winner of the second award in group two gave an interesting representation of a proud mother who shows her extremely clever if not extremely bad little son who was ill with nervous prostration because she was trying to be unselfish with the child's cleverness and ingenuity

After the concluding number on the program the judge Miss Dale Kennedy of Bell fontaine reached her decision while the Martel orchestra presented two numbers Dance of the Cricket Caprice by Serody and Stony Lone March by Laurendeau

SAY 4,000 PEASANTS SLAIN BY SOLDIERS

London Paper Carries Unconfirmed Reports of Russian Conditions

LONDON April 27—The Daily Chronicle today printed an unconfirmed report from Paris that Russian soldiers in the Tomsk district of Siberia rounded up and slaughtered 2000 peasants with machine guns

This report said that similar methods were employed in Ukrainia where 2 000 peasants were said to have been killed in one district by soldiers and 500 in another district

According to the Paris report many people in the Kiev region of Ukrainia fled and are now struggling over the Roumanian frontier in destitute condition

Joseph Stalin secretary general of the Russian Communist party and leader of the group controlling the Moscow government is reported to have won at least temporarily a victory over the right wing led by Premier Rykov Bukharin and Tomsky who it is rumored may be exiled from Moscow to Siberia

However the peasants all over taxed and many of them half starved are expected to support the right wing the Paris report stated

The Paris dispatch concluded Russia seems to be heading towards an abyss and a serious political upheaval"

G. O. P. WILL INVOKE CAUCUS FOR TARIFF

Rule To Be Used To Make Measure Conform with Hoover's Program

WASHINGTON April 27—Republican leaders of the house have decided to invoke the caucus rule to drive the new tariff bill through that body in conformity with the program of limited revision laid down by President Hoover it was disclosed today

A ruling tide of opposition to amendments from the floor however has made questionable the extent to which the caucus can be invoked on the bill

Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader said today that some form of caucus action will be used in uniting members behind a Republican program but that the exact nature of the limitation would have to be determined by the members themselves

The caucus will be called by Representative Hawley Republican Oregon chairman who is also chairman of the ways and means committee and who is anxious to see the bill go through the house as it comes from the committee Caucus rule becomes necessary leaders assert because a few indiscriminate amendments would throw the entire schedule of tariff schedules out of line

Daily Proverb—"A prudent woman is in the same class of honor as a wise man."

A Hoosier husband is seeking a divorce on the ground that his wife is a crossword puzzle addict. Why wouldn't that have been a case for a commission in lunacy?

The United States treasury department figures that there will be a surplus of $100,000,000. Isn't there grave danger in an announcement like this with congress in session?

We have long known that the leopard can not change its spots, and now the selection of Mr. Curry as head of Tammany rather goes to show that the tiger can not change its stripes.

If it isn't one thing it is another. There is always some one or something to spill the beans. Italy now demands parity with France both on land and sea, and if she doesn't get it there is to be no five-power naval accord.

A bottle of mineral water was broken over the bow of the fast new cruiser, Pensacola, at her launching at the Brooklyn navy yard, Thursday. Wasn't that a bit light for the christening of a warship named after a Florida town?

With the house favoring the farm relief bill acceptable to Mr. Hoover by a vote of 367 to thirty-four, there's a fat chance, as one given to slang would say, that that body will ever agree to the senate debenture plan, should that plan pass the upper house of congress, as is now held to be improbable.

The Cleveland papers tell of twenty bootleg joints smashed up in the Forest City, a night or two ago, but from the pictures run of them they seem to be a lot like the "poor man's clubs" we used to hear so much about back in the days before Volsteadism.

Professor Charles Lane Poor, of Columbia university, says Professor Einstein's new law is the same as Newton's save that Einstein's possesses more fluhdubs. We didn't know just what they were, but we never imagined that they were anything which could possibly be designated by a term so commonplace as fluhdubs. It's a gross outrage for Professor Einstein to play a trick on us like that.

Gaining Laurels in Europe.

An organization of Ohio singers is reaping high laurels in Europe. Whenever the Westminster choir, of Dayton, has appeared over there it has been most favorably received. Press and public alike have been won by it, and comment on its concerts are in terms of highest praise.

The choir repeated in Berlin the great successes it attained in other European cities. If anything, it seems to have penetrated even further into the musical soul of Germany than it has in any other European land.

"The perfect purity and richness of tone of the choir, who were guided by the conductor, John Finley Williamson, in extreme harmony and beauty of singing enraptured the audience to vigorous applause lasting for minutes, which was also addressed to the solo soprano whose glorious voice surpassed the whole choir of sixty," reads an extract from the comment of the Hamburger Fremdenblatt.

"The pure voices, the richness of the material and the culture of the delivery were attractive," says the Berliner Nachthausgabe. "Conductor John Finley Williamson and his sixty singers were enthusiastically applauded. It was a pleasant invasion from America."

"The performance of the choir was simply perfection," says in part the Welt Am Montag. "The feminine voices were remarkable and pure in tone as a choir of angels. Above all of them is often heard one angelic voice of such rare beauty that it moves one to tears."

What better way of making America known to Europe than this? What better ambassadors to arouse European appreciation of America could we send across the Atlantic than such high-class musical organizations as this Dayton choir with its soprano soloist with a voice like an angel?

There is a somewhat general impression in Europe that we of America are lacking in appreciation of art; that we know nothing of music, of sculpture, of painting. As a matter of fact, we have the leading two operatic organizations of the world. We have instrumental musical organizations without a superior in any land. Our public and private art galleries have skimmed much of the cream off the art of the world, and the creditable phase of the thing is that we have produced it or bought and paid for it; that none of it is ours by theft or seizure by force of arms. And coming right down to bald facts, we have here in America sculptors and painters the equals of any of the present times.

Why should we hide our light under a bushel? Why not let the world know what we have; why not let it know what we really are?

For Safety of Life at Sea.

The comprehensive sea safety code offered by the American delegation to the "International Conference for the Safety of Life at Sea," which opened its sessions in London last week, seemingly has made a good impression upon that gathering, its reception by the delegates possibly being the more favorable for the reason that in many respects it runs very much along the lines of the code submitted by the British delegation. That the nautical experts of two great nations, working for many months as two separate bodies, should arrive at practically the same conclusions and make very much the same recommendations rather goes to prove the worth of the principles and ideas advocated by them. The conference may radically get away from some of the suggestions of both the American and British codes, but, all things even, the probabilities are that the code finally adopted will be much along the lines common to the two.

The American proposals in the way of ship construction, fire protection and life-saving devices and appliances are held to constitute notable advances over the rules adopted by the conference in 1914 and conform to President Hoover's suggestions in his letter of instructions to the American delegation looking to the highest practical safety standards.

Drastic changes are proposed regarding lifeboats. Not only does the new code cover the present provision of lifeboats for all, but it provides for liferafts for not less than twenty-five per cent. of all aboard in addition. Vessels carrying fifty or more passengers must have one motor lifeboat. Where more than 800 are carried there must be two. Each motor lifeboat must have ample protection against rain and carry wireless sending and receiving apparatus capable of covering a radius of fifty miles.

For rescue work in rough weather in which the use of lifeboats is impossible, vessels must carry a gun capable of throwing a line at least 1,100 feet—practically a quarter of a land mile—by means of which a line may be shot to or from a receiving vessel by which a cable may be drawn to connect the two and permit of the operation of a breeches buoy. Smaller and lighter life-jackets for children must be provided. In addition to the present provision for lighting lifeboats aboard, there must be provision for lighting the sea about the vessel by flood-lights that boats may not be lowered in inky darkness and their occupants drowned in case of some mishap. Simpler, safer and more easily worked devices for lowering lifeboats must also be provided.

Fire alarm signals must be such as to be audible in every sleeping compartment, and there must be provision for two powerful streams of water for each compartment holding cargo.

It is insisted by the American delegation that every ship must be equipped with a radio compass to enable it to obtain bearings from direction-finding radio stations. It insists also on an international system of buoys and buoy lighting, and it urges fog-horn blasts every minute, during a fog, instead of every two minutes, as at present. Another recommendation is for stability tests for all new passenger ships before they are put into commission. Had this rule obtained in the past, 110 lives probably would not have been sacrificed in the sinking of the Vestris. Still another provision is for shortening of water-tight compartments to sixty feet "plus five per cent. of a vessel's length," and still another is for the increasing of the number of ships in international ice patrol in the North Atlantic from two to three.

There are many other recommendations, but these cover the chief suggestions by the American delegation and are in line with the most of the recommendations of the British.

The great liners of comparatively new construction are probably as nearly unsinkable as vessels can be built, but no vessel is unsinkable. This has been demonstrated time and again.

Thus there is demand that every possible practical device which is of use in time of emergency in the prevention of loss of life at sea shall be provided. The fact that such devices may never be needed, the American delegation insists, is no excuse for their absence in ships carrying passengers if possible use for them is conceivable, they should be at hand. Nothing should be permitted to stand against the preservation of life in case of accident at sea.

Florida and Mexican melons are on the city markets, but at present they are something in the nature of jewels, if price may be taken as a criterion.

The two-year prison sentence given a coast guard raider out in San Francisco, this week, for falsely swearing that a rum runner was within the twelve-mile limit when seized by him outside the Golden Gate in 1926 will not go to help greatly the government's position in the Una Alone case.

Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher is "annoyed" over the story that he is anxious to quit Rome and says he will remain as ambassador to Italy so long as his services are satisfactory to the president. Even at that, it might be to the great profit of Pennsylvania to have him representing her in the senate.

H. W. Youmans, seventy-eight years of age, will retire as editor of the Waukesha Freeman, May 1. It seems a shame for a youngster like that to retire at what should be the very height of his activities.

The selection of Mr. Curry is not the widespread victory for Mayor Walker, of New York, which has been heralded. Mr. Curry may have been made boss of Manhattan, but Boss Edward J. Flynn, of the Bronx, and Boss John H. McCooy, of Brooklyn, boldly state that he has another guess coming if he thinks he's going to be boss of Greater New York. Already the fight over the prospective spoils is on.

ONE KIND OF SAFE ROOST.

Vary Diet Daily.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is unfortunate that many persons fill their stomachs, satisfy their hunger and grow fat perhaps, but still are neglecting to get all the food they really need. Far too often we act as if quantity were the only factor to be considered.

Let us think about this for a moment. What would you think of the owner of an automobile who never bought oil for his car, but stopped at the filling station twice a day to get gasoline? You know the machine would rebel very quickly.

Perhaps you remonstrate with him and, to "even things up," he quits buying gasoline, but fills the oil tank two or three times a day. Of course, the car won't run long.

The fact is that there must be a proper proportion of oil and gasoline. Both are essential to the continued operation of the car. It is necessary, too, to add water to the batteries. There must be some of this, that and the other and enough of each of the essentials.

If it is true of a mechanical device that it must have just the right quantity of several "foods," it is plain that the human machine must have an unfailing supply of every single food that each individual cell and fibre and organ requires. Without such a supply there will be trouble. Sooner or later there will be uncomfortable symptoms.

Perhaps I can illustrate what I have in mind by speaking about goiter. You know what that is—"thick neck," it is sometimes called.

In the neck, on each side of the "Adam's apple," are the parts of what is called the "thyroid gland." When this gets out of order, there may be enlargement of the organ and disturbance in the normal generation of its juices. Since this secretion has an important part to play in mental and physical activity, unless this organ operates normally, the afflicted individual is in danger.

It has been found that the absence of iodine may produce goiter, if we do not take the foods which carry iodine and get that element in sufficient quantity, the trouble develops.

It is interesting that in countries or localities remote from the sea, goiter is much more likely to occur. This fact drew attention to the use of fish as a possible means of escaping the disease. A chemical analysis of several varieties of fish revealed that iodine is found in sea fish and not in fish from fresh water.

Then tests were made to find out if canning or preserving the fish altered the iodine content. This was important, because it is not easy, even with modern methods of refrigeration, to get salt water fish to these sections where goiter is prevalent.

It was found, fortunately, that the preservative processes do not destroy the iodine. Among the sources of iodine supply, therefore we have in the eating of sea fish, one way to help overcome the dangers of goiter.

It was Tuesday, April 27

Richad Effendi became the new sultan of Turkey with the title, Mehemmed V, succeeding Abdul Hamid, deposed.

The remains of Mrs. Sarah Diebold, a former resident of Marion county, who died at Pittsburg, Kansas, were brought here for burial.

Hundreds of Christians, including missionaries, were being killed in the Adana district of Asiatic Turkey.

Miss May Salter was elected president of St. Agnes' guild.

The surviving members of the Sultana disaster held their annual convention in Findlay. William Fies was present from Marion.

Rinehart Tropf and Mrs. William Bauer and her two sons, all of Martel, left for Chicago, where Mr. Tropf and his nephew, Arthur Bauer, were to be treated for mad dog bites.

J. P. Ludwig leased one of the rooms in the McNeal-Wolford block in course of construction.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Rider, of west Columbia street.

Editorial Opinion.

HIGH COST OF HEALING.

Expulsion of Dr. Louis H. Schmidt, eminent specialist, from the Chicago Medical society has raised a storm of protest in that city. The case is attracting attention throughout the country because it goes to the heart of the problem of excessive fees for medical and hospital care. The outcome may have a vital influence on the present campaign in many cities to make the services of reliable physicians and hospitals available to citizens in moderate circumstances.

Apparently Dr. Schmidt has the sympathy of the public and of a considerable portion of the medical profession. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, former health commissioner, has offered his resignation to the Medical society in protest. Other resignations are expected to follow. Dr. Scott, president of Northwestern university, where Dr. Schmidt is a member of the faculty, has issued a statement upholding the latter as one who for thirty years "has held that service was to go before profit."

Dr. Schmidt was charged with unethical practice based on his connection with the Public Health institute, a clinic which gives treatment for social diseases and which advertises its activities. It is considered unethical by the Chicago society for a physician to be connected with an institution which advertises, even though its activities are charitable. It appears quite evident that the physicians feared the philanthropic work of Dr. Schmidt and his associates would tend to draw patients from themselves. Dr. Schmidt replied that the medical profession must take some action to bring down "the inexcusably high costs of medical care."

If furnishing medical treatment to those unable to pay the present high prices is unethical, the code of the medical profession is in serious need of revision. It is commendable to find some public spirited physicians awakening to this necessity.—Washington Post.

A NEW ERA IN PARTY GOVERNMENT.

What may prove to be a new chapter in the history of the American political system was begun by President Hoover last week when he brought federal judicial appointments into the open. In transmitting a group of judicial nominations to the senate, the president announced the names of the senators and representatives who had recommended the appointees. It was made known at the same time that this policy would continue, as far as judicial appointments were concerned, and might be extended to other classes of federal jobs. This constitutes a frank recognition of the patronage system as it now exists, in the hope of remedying its shortcomings by turning the spotlight of publicity on its workings.

Naturally this scheme does not meet with the hearty approval of political leaders who gain most by the patronage system. They can, as always has been the case, work better in the dark. But the recent scandals in New York bankruptcy cases showed all too plainly that many men of low caliber were getting into high federal positions, simply through partisan preference. The present policy is well calculated to eliminate much of this evil by placing responsibility for such poor appointments squarely on the men who really determine the choices made formally by the president.

There is no good reason why this policy of open responsibility for federal patronage should not be continued, and perhaps extended to all categories of positions where political leaders have the determining voice. No president possibly could give his personal consideration to all the thousands of important appointments that he must make, and so it is only fair that those who advise him should face the responsibility entailed by the patronage privilege.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, April 27.—Many theatrical performances have been saved by a quick gesture or a deftly-spoken word. There is no place where the trigger mind is so essential as on the stage, and it is but fair to chronicle players possess this quality to a marked degree.

The other night at a musical comedy a hieroughing gentleman swayed down a middle aisle in the midst of a performance, tossed a note across the footlights, staggered back to his seat and was in turn escorted roughly out into the mild spring air. But the note was in full view, absorbing the audience's interest.

A pair of fancy steppers came on during the agony and it was marvelous to watch the adroit manner in which one of them jockeyed the envelope over to the wings and with a back kick flipped it out of sight. To all appearances he did not know it was there.

Nothing causes an audience or players to suffer so much as a performer "going up in his lines." This happened in a dialogue on a half-darkened stage recently between two finished actors. It was a tense scene upon which the entire action of the play hinged. And it was opening night.

One of the actors merely spoke his own lines, caused the paralyzing fright, and changing his voice slightly, spoke the lines of the player who forgot. It was done with such magnificent realism only a few members of the company standing in the wings realized what was taking place. To the audience there was not a hitch.

The neatest bit of lightning fast thinking followed a rousing first night reception to George Kelley, the young playwright, called before the curtain for a speech. He spoke low and a rowdy boomed. "Louder!" Kelley like a shot responded, "It isn't important!" and continued in his modulated tone.

In a musical comedy first night some scenery behind a back drop suddenly slipped moorings and landed with a series of resounding crashes. "Just a shower of feathers!" piped up a comedian, and what might have been a box office tragedy became what Variety terms "a belly laugh."

Beethoven, Bach and Brahms are giving away to stunt recitals even in such stately musical sanctuaries as Carnegie hall. Following the dildos of such modernists as Antheil, Krenek and Les Six, came the harmonies of a big group of street urchins picked up on the East Side, who played harmonicas, jew's harps, ocarinas, gourds, tuned ginger ale bottles, pebbles in cocoanuts and musical saws. But the latest is a recital to be held this summer by a group of gat-mouthed Middle West farm hands, who will render familiar tunes by blowing on peach leaves. That will be a concert!

Braided morning coats with pin striped trousers were once seen only at weddings or Fifth Avenue Easter parades. Today they are as numerous as ermine wraps—my war on them has just begun—at first nights. Many men, occupying those exalted posts at glass-topped desks in banks, brokerage houses, hotels and smart shops, are so habited, and some of the bolder spirits even wear a bout—you know, a lapel flower.

Then there is a rich Wall street broker who is reported never to wear the same hat more than a day. Paul Whiteman has twenty-four evening suits. George Jean Nathan has forty overcoats and Mayor Walker sixty walking sticks. Raymond Hitchcock is sole proprietor of six pearl gray derbies—three of which are constantly at the cleaner's. And there is a hot tip going around that Heywood Broun has another necktie.

Character and Heredity.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

An officer in a New York City department writes to me: "I read your daily articles without fail, and I must confess that they have certainly helped me a lot. Would you explain this for me? Which plays the most important part in molding a man's character, environment or inherited tendencies?"

I am not a "psychologist," and you must take my answer for what you consider it worth. I think it should be pointed out, however, that psychology is not an exact science. No one can deal with the human mind and character as confidently as we deal with physical facts that are subject to measurement and to mathematical calculation. I understand you to refer to "character" in the ordinary, general sense of the word, which accords very well with the following definitions given in the Standard dictionary: "The combination of qualities distinguishing any person or class of persons," and "The individuality, which is the product of nature, habit and environment."

It is a view commonly entertained that Washington was great through character but not through genius, that is, his greatness arose from an admirable combination and balance of good qualities rather than from any extraordinary gift of mind. In Napoleon it was the other way; his genius blazed with astonishing brilliance, but his character was uncertain and contradictory.

These two conspicuous examples serve to put your questions more clearly before us. Considering the careers of both Washington and Napoleon, is there anything which indicates that the environment in which those men lived had a determining effect upon their character? It does not seem to me that this is. The experiences of the American revolution of which he was the master spirit, surely did not shape the character of Washington, but it was, on the contrary, the unshakeable firmness and the unvarying equilibrium of his well-balanced faculties that maintained the revolution and determined its course. Being beaten in battle did not throw him off his feet. His character withstood the unfortunate influences of his environment and both during and after the revolutionary war he stood like a rock on a stormy coast.

Turning to Napoleon, whose general character was not so conspicuous and unalterable as his genius, I can see nothing to show that he was any more shaped by his environment than was Washington. The French revolution did not make him, but he found the revolution and utilized its forces for his own aims. It was the mightiest political and social influence of those times, but its atmosphere rolled over Napoleon simply to glorify in the fire of his victories.

To be sure, the second dictionary definition that I have quoted mentions environment as one of the elements concerned in the production of individuality, together with nature and habit. "Nature," we may translate as heredity, meaning only what was born in the individual without discussing the vexed question of the laws of heredity and their various applications. Habit is closely associated with environment. It may be thought that such extraordinary examples as those of Washington and Napoleon should not be chosen to stand for the ordinary course of human experience in this matter. It may be so; but still, I think that all history will be found to bear out the view that nature or heredity, uniformly plays a more important part in the molding of a man's character than do the influences of environment. At any rate it is certain that if environment is to be effective at all in shaping character it must be brought into operation very early in life. That is not to say that environment may not have immense restraining and educative effects at almost any period life, but it can hardly eradicate deep-seated, inborn tendencies, though it may hold them in control.

If the mental characters are governed by the physical ones, then inherited character seems to start too far back to be fundamentally affected by anything occurring after birth.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., may be over optimistic as far as the present conduct of most business is concerned, but he has right and is looking ahead when he says that the action which brought about a change of management in the Standard Oil Company of Indiana "emphasizes the conviction that the highest ethical standards are as vital in business as they are in other relations of life."

The fact remains, despite the leadership of men like Rockefeller, that the emphasis in business is still too much on beating last year's figures.

We wonder, and perhaps smile, when we read that a Wisconsin woman, who was left a lot of money, spent thousands of dollars filling her house with wholesale lots of clothes, furniture, bric-a-brac, clocks and mirrors. It was filled from garret to cellar so that there was barely room to walk around. She had fifty houses dresses, 30 pairs of shoes, and hundreds of pictures for which there was no room on the walls. Her estate was turned into a gift shop. But perhaps there was as much sense in her buying habits as in those of many of the rest of us. We all buy things we do not need just to gratify the sense of possession or to feed our vanity. We like to be known to own things, whether we use them or not. It would be a vastly less amusing world if folks were rational.

Bohemia To Be Scene

RADIO ORCHESTRA FEATURE

Portrayed in Program

BY MAC L. ROY

BOHEMIA will be the scene of the next Musical Vignettes, in which the compositions of Dvorak will be featured, when they broadcast their program over stations of the Columbia Broadcasting System at 9:30 o'clock Monday night.

Each week a large symphony orchestra, under the direction of Howard Barlow, selects a different country and paints a picture of it by means of music instead of a brush. Bohemia will furnish the background for next week's broadcast, and such famous compositions of Dvorak as the "Carnival Overture," the Scherzo from the "New World Symphony" and Slavonic Dances Nos. 8 and 10 will be featured.

In addition the "Polka" and "The Dance of the Comedians," from Smetana's "Bartered Bride," will also be heard.

They have, therefore, arranged an official open-air prize fight for Monday night. This fight will be the subject of the "Real Folks" hour to be broadcast at 5:30 o'clock over the WJZ network.

Says Helen Kane Outstars Dix; Doug Here in "The Iron Mask"

Baby-Talk Singer Makes Her Debut in "Nothing But the Truth"

BY PIERRE DE ROHAN
Marion Star Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 27—Helen Kane, whose singing of bubbety-bub-bub baby-talk songs has created a vogue, makes her screen debut in "Nothing But the Truth," and so completely overshadows the star, Richard Dix, and the other players, that she literally "walks away with the picture," as we say in Broadwayese.

This Paramount talking picture is a fast and amusing adaptation of Willie Collier's lusty stage farce of the same name. In it Dix shows up to splendid advantage in his first speaking role, and, as has been said, Miss Kane scores a minor triumph. The picture is laughter-provoking throughout, and good enough program material for any house. You will want to see it when it comes your way.

THE brightest and best party of the week, to the best of your conscientious reporter's knowledge and belief, was held at the Club Richman on Monday night, in honor of Dan Healy.

Dan, in case you do not know, comes pretty close to being Broadway's favorite son. One of the best tap dancers ever to shake feet on a stage, Healy also is an actor of unquestioned ability and a master of ceremonies in a class by himself. Furthermore, his big heart is one of the traditions of Broadway. Since the beginning of this year he has appeared, without pay, in 275 benefit performances for charitable causes. This is an average of more than two a day. Consider, too, that during this time he has been playing eight performances a week in Hammerstein's "Good Boy," and appearing later at a night club.

Healy now has signed a contract with Paramount to appear in talking pictures, and will begin work next week in "Glorifying the American Girl." This change was the occasion of Monday night's party, which was attended by most of the Broadway celebrities. Former Governor Smith, Governor Roosevelt, Mayor Walker Police Commissioner Whalen, and other dignitaries sent letters and telegrams congratulating the star, and everybody had a swell time in honor of a swell guy.

Programs for Marion Theaters Next Week Announced Today

HIGHLIGHT of next week's theatrical program will be Douglas Fairbank's appearance here in "The Iron Mask." This picture will show at the Palace. The Marion will offer three programs during the week, the Oakland will present its usual bills while the Grand will remain "dark."

Novarro Star in Marion Picture

RAMON NOVARRO is featured in "A Certain Young Man," a M. G. M. picture, scheduled for three days, beginning Sunday, at the Marion theater. He plays a gay young Londoner whose flirtations are the talk of society until he meets the right girl and has a comical time of "reforming." Marceline Day is the girl, and Renee Adoree and Carmel Myers her feminine rivals.

Eleanor Boardman has the role of Tillie, girl of the underworld in "Diamond Handcuffs," scheduled at the Marion Wednesday and Thursday. Conrad Nagel and Lawrence Gray are co-featured.

Friday and Saturday at the Marion brings "The Law of the Range," featuring Tim McCoy and Joan Crawford. One of the unusual sequences in this film is the forest fire scenes.

Fairbanks in Palace Picture

In this film once more is Fairbanks D'Artagnan, dashing hero of Alexander Dumas' stories, as he was in "The Three Musketeers" a few years ago.

The first part of the picture takes place during the reign of Louis XIII when the four musketeers wield their swords in defense of their king and his infant son. The second part takes place 20 years later during the early period of the regime of the young Louis XIV. The cast includes Belle Bennett, Marguerite de la Motte, Dorothy Revier and Vera Lewis.

For Friday and Saturday the Palace will show "Molly and Me," featuring Belle Bennett and Joe E. Brown. It's a story of theatrical life and two burlesquers who trouped for years before the man of the team reached success.

Program for the Oakland

A double feature program will open the week at the Oakland, Sunday, continuing three days. Patsy Ruth Miller appears in "South Sea Love," while Lina Basquette and Eddie Quillan are in "Show Folks."

Wednesday and Thursday Joan Crawford will be seen in "Rose Marie," made from the musical comedy of the same name.

"Two Arabian Knights," with William Boyd and Louis Wolheim, is scheduled for the last two days of the week, commencing Friday.

Just Things

BY EDNA B. DUTTON

Men Not Helpless

GLORIOUS woman, in all her independence need no longer think she can lord it over mere man and keep him in a state of trembling submission by battling for her share of this world's goods and as much more as she can wrest from him. In spite of all this they seem to be taking it quite good naturedly and are not a bit abashed when even a muchly modern grandmother gives him a run for his money when it comes to putting across a good business deal. But the male of the species is coming into his own, even as you and I, and before another decade rolls around it looks as though the woman who literally oozes independence will be eating her eyes about in order to find some little wifely, sisterly or motherly act they might perform for the one-time lords of creation. Just by way of pointing out the signs of the times I must cite an instance of the current week. Enroute to work, at an hour when debutantes yawn and feel sorry for us and the milkmen, I saw a man plying his needle to which was attached a sturdy thread, in the act of hitching a recreant button to the coat which he was wearing. The idea of conservation of time has dawned on them too, for this man was evidently waiting for a bus or some other conveyance to take him to his day's labors.

Right This Way

SOME enterprising soul with an eye for business is overlooking a good bet when they don't set up a hot dog and lemonade stand on the location of the new J. C. Penney store site. There would always be business, for they come, they see and are conquered, for they return again the next day to see how the work is progressing. And where could you have a more entertaining afternoon of good clean fun than munching a hot pup er two and watching the hole in the ground grow?

Mice for Toys

HAVE you a little mouse in your home? Not the kind that makes cats forsake home and friends for hours, but a nice rubber one that squeaks when you pinch him. There's plenty of fun if you happen to be the one promoting the game but otherwise the idea doesn't click so hard. A woman in the fire and 30, who the toys abound put on some amusements that would have made Lenore Ulrich look like a statue when one of the rodents rolled off the counter at her feet.

Ignorance under the Jones law is no excuse. Those who transport liquor should know that this is not the Jones who pays the freight.

The Forbidden Door

WHAT TERRIBLE EVIL LAY BEHIND ITS MASK?

BY HERMAN LANDON

FORTY-ONE

"S[illegible] Hannan Maxwell," said [illegible]. "Poor fool!"

The words fell emptily on Hannan's ears. They meant nothing, but their tone! It was edged with something. He could not see the face of the speaker, but he felt it must be evil in the extreme if it matched the voice.

"Where—where's Viola?" he stammered faintly.

The man standing over him merely laughed, then called out harshly: "Maxwell! Oh, Maxwell! Come here!"

A shiver went through Hannan's bruised body. Some one came running.

"What is it?"

"Cicerone has been amusing himself with your son. I suppose he is your son. He looks like Old Winthrop."

An exclamation of distress sounded

"Hannan—Hannan! After I warned you—Can you get up, my boy? There—let me help you."

Hannan looked up. For the first time in years he saw his father's face—a gray, tired face with sad, kindly eyes. He took Maxwell's hands. With great difficulty he raised his feet. Leaning weakly against his father's shoulder, he balanced himself. With a shrug the other man walked away.

"You're hurt—terribly hurt!" Maxwell exclaimed. "Oh, my boy, I wish you hadn't—But there—shan't scold. You're young, and Old Winthrop's hot blood runs in your veins. Now you are going to undress and lie down and I'll dress your wounds. Put your hand on my shoulder—just like that. Now—"

Hannan staggered forward. He felt very faint. The long, dim room heaved and rocked before his eyes. Suddenly he paused.

"Tell me, dad. Where's—Viola?"

"Who? Oh, the young woman?" Maxwell's tired eyes looked with grave concern into his son's torn and bleeding face. "So that's it, I understand, my boy. That's why you——"

"Where is she?" Hannan insisted.

"Not far away. And she is all right. Nothing serious has happened to her yet."

"Yet!" The little word sounded terrifying. But for the present, at any rate, Viola was safe.

The fragrance of flowers and a current of cool air greeted Hannan's senses as he returned to consciousness. He was lying in a comfortable bed in a small, pleasant room, and the administration of soothing lotions had eased the smarting of his wounds. There were no windows, but he could inspect his surroundings in the light of a small bedside lamp.

His mind moved drowsily, slipping from one impression to another. This room in which he found himself must be a part of Old Winthrop's sanctuary. He had braved the terrors of the forbidden door. He shuddered at the recollection. Those eyes of flame! Those slavering jaws! Those bruising fangs! And Viola! Where was she now? His father had said that nothing serious had happened to her—yet. The ominous quality of that little word came back to him.

He sat up. He must find her at once and make sure. He looked about for his clothes, and a cluster of wild roses in a vase caught his eyes. A current of air fresh and soothing, swept his face. Fresh air in a house buried beneath an avalanche? But his mind was too full of other things to wonder about it. And now the door opened. His father entered, a weary, broken, oldish man with a haunted look in his eyes who gave the impression that life had bludgeoned him cruelly.

"How are you, my boy? Better, I see. That's great. Dr. Traycore is busy in his laboratory. That will give us a chance to talk and we have so much to talk about. We must plan something. So much has happened. Everything is upset. Let me see—"

A thousand and one questions thronged Hannan's mind, but one was uppermost:

"Is Viola all right?"

Maxwell stroked his head, his sunken eyes full of pain and sorrow and tenderness.

"Yes, my boy. She is all right."

Hannan gazed into his father's face, so different from the face he remembered. Some devastating experience seemed to have left its traces on it. And as he looked he felt Maxwell was holding something back, some thought too appalling for utterance.

"Tell me, dad!"

"I have told you. She is all right. Nothing has happened."

"But something may?"

"There, my boy. You mustn't worry now. Miss Lang is safe for the present. You love her, don't you? Of course you do. You risked your life for her. Well, I, too, loved once. I want your experience to be happier. Just now there is nothing to do but wait and plan—and hope. If Dr. Traycore——"

"Who is Dr. Traycore?"

"You saw him—or maybe you didn't. You were only half-conscious when he found you."

"He saved my life, didn't he? He stopped that awful beast from tearing me to pieces."

"Yes, so he did." A shudder went through Maxwell.

"I must tell you about Traycore," Maxwell went on. "You will meet him again soon and you must be prepared. You remember the story of Frankenstein; the man who created a monster. Well, your grandfather was a Frankenstein and Traycore is his creature. And a terrible monster he is!" The last sentence came on a hushed, quivering breath.

Weak as he was, Hannan shuddered. "I don't understand, dad. Old Winthrop was a fine gentleman. How could he create anything so terrible?"

His father smiled wanly. "His intentions were good and noble. But his creature got beyond his control, just as Frankenstein's monster did. I might as well tell you everything. It can do no harm now. This avalanche and its consequences have changed the whole situation. Old Winthrop foresaw nearly everything, but he didn't foresee this. Mallingham exploded his secret when he blew off the mountain top." He gave a cheerless, rueful chuckle. "Your grandfather was a queer sort, Hannan. But I guess you know that. You knew him better than you knew me. And you take after him more than you take after me. I'm only a pale copy of Old Winthrop. But you——"

"You're just splendid, dad," Hannan interrupted.

Maxwell shook his head sadly. "I'm a failure—worse than a failure. But I'm going to tell you about Old Winthrop and Traycore. Traycore, by the way, is the menace behind the iron door—the menace Old Winthrop warned you against. When the clock stops, then Traycore will die and the menace will be gone forever."

Hannan had been gazing at the fresh, fragrant roses in the vase. Now he bent a startled gaze on his father.

"You will understand those things better as I go on," Maxwell pointed out. "Old Winthrop was a marvelously active and versatile man. Like all geniuses, he was erratic and flew from one thing to another. His strange character was reflected in everything he touched—even in such trifles as the revolving globe in the Marlenet town house. You may have seen it. Many people have wondered about it—and that was exactly what Old Winthrop liked to do—make people wonder. As for the revolving globe, the explanation is so simple that nobody has thought to look for it in the right place. The revolutions are timed by clockwork, of course, but where is the motive force? Some day somebody will make the discovery that the weather vane on top of the house acts on a spring which keeps the clockwork constantly wound up. That's all there is to it."

"And the clock above the iron door?" Hannan asked.

"I don't know. I am not a mechanic. Neither is Dr. Traycore, although he has a keen scientific mind. Neither of us would care to tamper with it. We might disarrange some delicate piece of mechanism, and then——" Maxwell shuddered a little * * * "But I have an idea that the clock is kept running by a contrivance similar to the one that keeps the globe revolving. It must be an underground device, or the avalanche would have stopped it. There may be a stream beneath this house that exerts a pressure on the clockwork. That's the most likely theory. It's the one that Mallingham seized upon. Maybe he was right, but if so he bungled the performance. Maybe he selected the wrong stream. Anyhow, the clock didn't stop."

ADDITION TO FUNERAL HOME

A Distinctive Personality

You have all experienced services of various kinds that were colorless, utterly lacking in distinction. And then, you have been served in such a way, that you received a distinct impression of the qualities of the service rendered.

We have tried to make our service a service with a distinct personality; a service to be cherished as perfect down to the last smallest detail.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY, and a nice bammy day. That is the first time that has happened for a long time. It is most always rotten on Saturday and bammy on Sunday when a fella can't do anything for fear he will go where he don't want to go when he dies. I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and went down and made a fire in the kitchen, and then I went out and dug a can of worms and left them where my grandfather would find them when he came out to wash his face, and then I got the milk pail and went out to milk the dummed brutes.

When I got it all done and was going in the house there was my grandfather overhauling his fishing, and he wanted to know if we all wanted to go fishing. We said we did and everyone hiked home for their poles and when they got back we all hiked out to the river way out past Big Creek. When we had all fished quite a while and there were not any bites my grandfather said for us to stay and fish where we were at and he would circle around and go up past the next pasture and see if there were any bites to be had up there. So he went away and we fished for quite a while, and then we went in swimming and almost froze ourselfs except that we would come out and play Indian in the sun and get warmed up, and all the time we thought we heard a noise like someone hollering, but thought we didn't.

Then when it began to get afternoon we thought we would go and see what my grandfather had caught, so we all hiked out and I hollered the last one there knowed what he was, and when we got to the big gate to the far pasture there was my grandfather laying on the ground on his back and the gate was on top of him pressing on his stummick, and he was rolling his eyes around and his whiskers were curling and uncurling. I was scairt and kneeled down by his head and asted him where he was hurt, and he said he wasn't hurt but why didn't we come when he hollered and lift that good many kinds of a gate off of him. I said, "Oh, was that you that was hollering?" I wish I hadn't said it, because when I did he blowed up, and he said more kinds of things my mother wouldn't of wanted me to hear than she ever thought of. And then he wanted to know what the blankety-blank we were standing around for and not lifting the gate off of him. So we all got hold of it.

The hinges were broken off of the gate and my grandfather didn't notice and had pulled it over onto himself, and it was offal heavy. He wasn't hurt, but he was mad all the way home. He said the next time we go fishing with him we will know it. I told him if we hadn't been along he'd be there yet. He didn't say anything to that. My mother was all excited.

Younger Men Taking Lead as Violators of Law, Veteran Marion Chief Declares

Editor's Note—This is the fourth of a series of articles prepared to give Marion citizens a closer acquaintance with their official city family It is planned to include all municipal employes and officials in the series

* * *

MOST of the crime of Marion in recent years has been committed by boys and men under 25 years of age whereas before the World war most crimes were traced to men of 25 or more years J W Thompson chief of Marion police says with the authority of his 22 years of experience with the Marion force as basis for his assertion This condition is not confined to Marion the chief explained but generally prevails

The homes or rather the lack of proper homes are blamed for this condition by Chief Thompson who claims the lack of proper home environment and the unwillingness of fathers to give their sons pocket money results in many petty crimes Some of these are through love of adventure but many thefts and check forgeries are due to the actual need of money by the boys of high school age

Record of Arrests

Generally recognized as one of the most fearless men ever in police service here Chief Thompson has been connected with many of the sensational arrests made in the 22 years he has been on the force records show and although chief since 1918 he still makes his share of arrests

CHIEF J W THOMPSON

For his courage and determination to get his man Chief Thompson can now display a wound where a bullet, from the gun of a robber passed entirely through his body The coat he was wearing at the time bears the marks of the bullet where it entered and left his body

On another occasion in 1911 pursuit of a much feared robber a giant red man led Chief Thompson then a patrolman into the rear of a vacant lot Rounding a corner of a building Chief Thompson was confronted by two guns in the hand of the negro who had covered him behind some boxes Facing the two guns chief talked with the robber usually pulling his own revolver and taking the negro prisoner

Appointed in 1907

More chance than desire led the chief to join the Marion police force in 1907 At that time he was employed at the Marion Manufacturing Co as foreman in the boiler making department As there was a shortage of men to take the civil service examination for a patrolman Thompson at the request of some other workers consented to take the test The next day he received an appointment

Chief Thompson was born in Union county on June 3 1878 It was there he attended school When he was 17 years of age he came to Marion where he began work with the Marion Manufacturing Co as an apprentice boiler maker While there he worked under S H Heller who is now city clerk When he joined the police force in 1907 he was a foreman at the shop

He has seen the number of patrolmen on duty fluctuate from 12 to 28 men having 18 on the force now With his staff of 38 men the city is now given protection although the law allows him as high as 40 men

He was appointed chief of the local force by Mayor A J Snutte and took over his position on Jan 5 1918

In 1896 he married Miss Essie Jeffers of Marion. They are the parents of a son, Roy Thompson of Curtis and a daughter Mrs Rhea Ellis of Summit st. Chief Thompson is a member of Marion Lodge No 40 Free and Accepted Masons and of Marion Lodge No 192 Knights of Pythias

Chrysler enjoys its universal prestige and popularity because Chrysler is unique among motor cars

There is no other motor car performance quite like Chrysler performance—so silky in power, so flashing in pick-up so steady in speed, so untiring to drive, so disciplined in control

This is understandable when you check the list of Chrysler engineering developments included in both the "65" and the "75"—chassis and body features, and combinations of features, to be enjoyed only in Chrysler cars

Chrysler offers, in the final analysis, something more than just a motor car It affords, in reality, a delightful new phase, a thrilling new experience, in motoring performance.

You can pay more and still not equal the performance or the intrinsic value that Chrysler "65" and "75" both give you at their remarkably moderate prices.

Will Turns To History

Says English Overestimated Fighting Qualities and Started Revolution, Paul Revere Warned Americans from Bunker Hill Radio Station

BY WILL ROGERS

Tires Get 1 000 Bills in There

BOSTON Mass April 27—Well all I know is just what little I read in the papers Been up among the Yankees in New England for a couple of weeks They are mighty fine old folks and they take a joke on themselves great too I was kidding 'em about not making Coolidge a present of a home when he returned to the old State from serving as President I really always felt like they ought to get Mr Coolidge a nice home They laughed hardily at my little quips on it but no one started a collection But they are mighty loyal well read and a dandy audience

I was here last week during the celebration of Patriots Day that's a thing they just have up here It has something to do with the time when the British overestimated their fighting qualities and they started a Revolution Well that's the time Paul Revere unlocked an old buggy Horse jumped on him bareback and announced This is Paul Revere broadcasting from Bunker Hill Station shut off your sets and grab a musket The British are coming and if they don't step to get on their tires they're liable to be here any minute This program is being brought to you through the courtesy of George Washington a Virginia planter A farmer that needs relief But just want to remind the British it all figures we can run at our eyes and cut out the overhead Wake up Pilgrims and shake a leg and when you see a Red Coat coming don't shoot till you see if they got white eyes Any of you Birds in the road to Concord Lemme see a pair of spurs I never will get anywhere Good Night Enter Ben Franklin (Lonnie Hull) Indicating Good Night

Two of a Kind

Now I just want to tell you how much smarter these New Englanders are than all the rest of us We thought Paul was the only Western Union Messenger Boy that ever [illegible] but never heard of another one Got in Oklahoma History there said Well there was another fellow that worked a different territory that same night his name was Dawes and he had a Horse too I don't know where he went I think he went down to Newport to see if he could get any of the Millionaires to Feel Go commit a crime Now how many of you that knew that there was a Dawes that made the race? Course it attracted no more attention than a Vice President but he did it He had a long Corn Cob pipe and here was his appeal against Taxation without Representation Wake up there you Plymouth and stop laughing and go to cramming Mell and Mary what do you think this is a United States Senate Get up and do something for your country If you haven't got a Cause get a Gun and make your name Come on after him the Indians all the years fighting the British will be a breeze Hell and Maria you think I am joking to push this Country in the middle of the night for nothing If we can get the British out of here maybe we can get to Senate Rules changed When you get a good full of real smoking Tobacco I want you all to clean those British out back here I'm not going to have to go out to my home in Chicago and Frame them back here I'll will kill all the British and all the minute men too How's that and by Lexington now have they still got those Tours? Remember as I told you when I first galloped up to the bar here and got off the Pinto's are coming If that's of any particular interest to you No thanks had enough got to be getting on Good night everybody!

Keen Braves Won

Well now last week here in Boston on Patriots day April 19, they went through this whole thing It was a big Holiday up here. Well you might know it was a big Holiday when the Braves won two games. They had all the patriotic societies out, and had a wonderful parade, and they reproduced Paul's and Charley's ride Well Dawes he got lost, there was a traffic light against him so he started off another way, and the crowds along the way never did get a peek at him any more. He was supposed to have an escort, but none of them had ever made the route before, they were picked more for historical than geographical knowledge. Paul did a little better, he made the trip but an old barrelled headed Army Horse run away, and just delighted on running into where there was the most people located. This old jug head had always heard bands playing and people cheering before [illegible]

Branch of he done as a National craft Some Cop in a Manoo is want to make the home a "No Spot" liquor [illegible] there and I'm sure of Maryland wants to raise the Star Spangled Banner the National Anthem Who then they ask Where [illegible]

BRITISH TEAM BEATS AMERICA

U S Golfers Lose in Final Battle for Ryder Cup

MOORTOWN Eng April 27— Staging a brilliant uphill fight Great Britain this afternoon conquered America's greatest professional golfers and won the historic Ryder cup 7 points to 3

The Lanhishmen started today's singles matches trailing by one point yesterday's foursomes having given the invaders a total to 7 1 2 point lead

By virtue of their victory, the British have wrested the cup from the defending United States team

The poor showing of Walter Hagen captain of the American team, who was beaten 10 up and 8 to play by George Duncan captain of the British aggregation was one of the surprises of the day Hagen a competitive player of the highest caliber was far off his game

Horton Smith the brilliant youngster of Joplin Mo who in the last year became a sensation in the United States performed nobly for the American cause He won a hard fought battle with Fred Robson four up and two to play

Another American to make a magnificent showing was Leo Diegel who conquered the veteran Abe Mitchell 9 up and 8 to play Diegel was the sensation of yesterday's foursome matches and took his work in the singles was equally brilliant

Johnny Farrell the American open champion went down to a convincing defeat 8 down and 6 to play at the hands of Charles Whitcombe

The seasoned Gene Sarazen was beaten almost as badly He lost to the hard hitting Archie Compston six and five

ATHENS MAYOR OWES STATE, CITY $955

Report Made by State Auditor Tracey After Examination of Records

COLUMBUS, April 27—That Alex M Moore as mayor of Athens owes the state and Athens city treasuries $955 75 as fines collected and not deposited is the claim contained in a report made today by State Auditor Joseph T Tracy

Moore was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor last year State officials said Moore recently disappeared and cannot be located

The report made public today covers a special examination by State Examiner George B Rector of the records of the mayor's office at Athens for the period from Nov 27, 1927, to March 18 last. The report, also, stated that a finding against Moore of $334 during a former examination of his records remained unpaid

TORNADO TOLL MOUNTS TO 92

South Appeals for Aid as Plague Threatens Hundreds Injured

ATLANTA, Ga., April 27—The human toll in storm ravaged central Georgia and South Carolina mounted today to at least 92 dead 147 injured and more than 500 homeless and faced by the greater menace of plague as hastily strung telegraph lines carried heartbreaking stories and appeals for aid northward

Red Cross workers and voluntary aids groped their way through almost impassable highways to reach the stricken sector and give succor to stranded families who gazed in dull eyed apathetic hopelessness at the ruin wrought by the tornadoes which swept through the two states late Thursday night.

As salvaging went forward projected in some cases by national guardsmen to forestall possible looting, revised estimates of the property loss placed the damage at exceeding $1 500 000 Even this figure will mount as communication with the storm swept area is reestablished it is believed

Citizens of Statesboro Ga who were cut off entirely from the outside world for a day have broadcast a call for help in their fight against the plague menace A serious situation is said to exist at Statesboro This sorely distressed town has been many injured facing danger of infection and with physicians handicapped by lack of medical supplies

The storm swept in a wide swath from Macon southeast through Bibb Laurens Dooly and Chandler counties its freakish course strewn with dead and injured and leaving levelled buildings impassable high ways and severed communication in its wake

Reports from the stricken Georgia towns reported the known toll as follows with many more reported dead in the outlying farm sections between the towns Statesboro 31 killed 70 injured Cochran 20 killed 110 injured Metter 21 killed 50 injured Baxter, 6 killed 17 injured and Rentz one killed, 10 injured

Meager telegraphic dispatches trickling in from isolated South Carolina communities placed the death list in that state conservatively at seven and the injured at 20

PLAN FORMAL DEDICATION OF CITY AIRPORT

Official Ceremony Expected To Take Place Within Next Two Months

PROGRAM UNDECIDED

Improvement Work at Field Scheduled To Start Next Week

Formal dedication of Marion's municipal airport is expected within the next two months Mayor Emery Murphy said today All improvements and equipment necessary to give the local port a class A rating will be completed by that time city officials predict

Details for the dedication of the local airport have not been completed as possible contingencies may delay the ceremonies but Mayor Murphy said he would be sadly disappointed if the improvement work which will start next week is not finished by July 1 There is possibility that the work will progress rapidly and the dedication held before July

Propose Flying Circus

Although no plans have been made for a dedicatory program there has been some suggestion of bringing a flying circus to Marion for the day This was among the original plans presented by the Junior Chamber of Commerce Stunts and events also for the day in connection with the dedication rest with officials and will not be completed until a definite date has been set.

When the Marion port is dedicated officials plan to have completed properly constructed runways for planes to land and take off and a hangar with at least a four plane capacity Work on the runways and investigation of the merits of different types of hangars will begin early next week with the completion of a survey of the field by City Engineer I S Cathers This survey will show the topography of the entire field although a portion of the field will not be used in the original improvements

Goes Before Council

When the survey is completed it will be submitted to J M Dolan, engineer of the Marion Aircraft Co, who is expected to use the survey as the basis of suggested improvements to be recommended at a called session of council next week The excavation necessary to level the field and the amount of cinders needed to construct runways will be discussed along with other proposed improvements

YOUTH SAYS HE WAS BEATEN BY CAPTORS

Found Hanging by Feet from Tree in Rear of Home

MIRANGO Mich April 27— Weakened and suffering from exposure while held captive by the masked kidnapers who held him captive starving and flogging him for a week Lawrence Mills 15 son of a wealthy farmer here today was found hanging by his feet from a limb of a tree in the rear of his home

The boy who disappeared last Saturday after he had left home to go to the dentist was found by Pete Lake Mirango storekeeper who said he heard the boy sobbing and moaning as he passed the Mills home.

Lake cut the ropes suspending the boy from the tree and aroused his parents Mr and Mrs Hibbin Mills who claimed they were not awakened by the boy's cries during the night

Deputy Sheriff George Colby asserted the boy's story was almost unbelievable. Although expressing doubt as to part of the boy's story, he said Mills obviously weakened condition, apparently caused by hunger and exposure gave credence to the fact that he had had little food.

Mills parents however, said they had received no ransom letters although the boy maintained that ransom letters had been written before his own eyes

ELIGIBILITY OF MELLON WILL GO TO SENATE

Minority Report Will Declare Office Held Illegally

BLOW TO HOOVER

Norris and Walsh Oppose Majority of Committee Making Report

WASHINGTON April 27—Andrew W Mellon will be handed an ineligible for the post of secretary of the treasury and declared guilty of holding it illegally since 1921 in a minority report from the senate judiciary committee even though a majority of its members in the Pennsylvanian's favor it was learned today

The minority report sets King Mellon right to remain in the Hoover cabinet and demanding his immediate removal will be filed by Senator George W Norris Republican of Nebraska chairman of the committee and Senator Thomas J Walsh Democrat of Montana, one of the senate's greatest lawyers The minority report naturally will throw the question of Mellon's cabinet eligibility back into the senate which will have to make a decision on an issue which President Hoover failed to avoid by retaining Mellon in his cabinet without a reappointment.

Changes Old Decision

The senate judiciary committee met this morning to consider the question behind locked doors Previously the committee decided unanimously that Mr Hoover had the right to retain Mellon without reappointing him This gave rise to reports that the committee would decide the whole Mellon controversy—a question that has arisen time and again in the senate ever since the Pennsylvanian went into office under the late President Harding—in his favor Norris and Walsh however have decided to vote against Mellon's right to be a cabinet officer

If the senate should uphold this minority view the question would be thrown into the federal courts since their contention is that Mellon is violating a special law forbidding the secretary of treasury from being concerned or interested in trade or commerce If the courts found Mellon guilty of violating this law, he would be fined $1000 removed from office and forever after barred from holding any other federal office Mellon already has told the committee, by letter, that he owns stock in the Aluminum Co of America, the Gulf Oil Refining Co and the Standard Car Construction Co He stated he merely owned minority stock in these concerns and had resigned from their management when he became secretary of the treasury

HOPE GROWING FOR ARMS CONFERENCE

America's Attitude Satisfactory to Most European Nations

GENEVA, April 27—Hope for a general disarmament conference to consider reduction of armies as well as naval and air fleets was strengthened today as a result of the new atmosphere of amity prevading the meeting of the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission

Hugh Gibson's announcement that America will accept the French viewpoint that military reservists should not be counted in peacetime as army effectives was the concession responsible for the new tenor of hopefulness.

However, while the American attitude is satisfactory to most of the big European powers it is opposite the viewpoint of Germany and Soviet Russia.

Count Von Bernstorff, the German delegate, has been in communication with his government since Mr. Gibson made his announcement. He has received additional instructions from Berlin and he promised this afternoon to "propose an intermediate solution of the reservist question." He added that Germany desires "an appreciable reduction of land forces"

DRAG RIVER FOR BODY

DAYTON, April 27—Police and firemen prepared today to drag the river here in hope of recovering the body of Mrs. Kate Zatersky, who has been missing since Tuesday. The woman was said to have been despondent over the death of her father recently and it is thought she may have ended her own life by a plunge into the waters of the river.

CLEVELAND POLICE CONTINUE WRECKING

Use Axe and Crowbar on "Joints", $50,000 Brewery Is Raided

CLEVELAND, April 27—Bootleg "casualties" continued to mount rapidly in Cleveland today as a result of the axe and crowbar campaign against speakeasies by police Central station records showed a total of 52 men and women under arrest on liquor-law violation charges this morning and scores more booked for suspicion and investigation

Many known "joints" have been raided without arrests for the reason that there was no one present when the wrecking crew arrived Liquor and beer were found in several such places and bars, mirrors, cash registers and furniture were smashed

One of the features of the raids early today was the smashing of a $50 000 alleged brewery in the downtown district No bottled beer was made in this plant police say, all the product being delivered in regulation beer kegs

Brightwood Lot Owners To Profit from Location of New High School

ADJOINS SUBDIVISION

Land Ideal for New Building, Drainage Facilities Are the Best

With perhaps the finest record of accomplishment of any local real estate subdivision development Brightwood addition is now looking forward to an increase in values due to the decision of the board of education to locate the new high school building in this residence section

The new high school site runs from Marion cemetery north to Mandana av Just across this street is located one of the finest undeveloped strips of land in the city It is densely wooded It is drained by the finest trunk line sewers in Marion One sewer is five feet in diameter and both storm and sanitary trunk line sewers are from 14 to 42 feet under ground in this section This fact is of the greatest importance to lot owners for it assures them of dry basements for all time and offers the most adequate system of drainage of any part of the city The many fine shade trees on this strip is another decided advantage to the prospective home builder, in fact it is hard to estimate just how much trees are worth in the appreciation that they give to a property

Beyond the dense shrubbery shown in the accompanying illustration are located two or the beauty spots of Marion The Kile estate Flowah with its beautiful lake and grounds is just across the grassy plot on the left of the picture and the lakes of the Hummer estate are just beyond the Greenwood st bridge that is shown on the right of the photograph

Values Increase

In Mansfield about three years ago a similar vacant spot beyond the built up section was chosen for a high school site There was not a house in the area around the school Today this entire region is built up with houses and the lots have been sold again and again each time at an increase in price This is always the tendency where land is available for homes near a high school site With Brightwood offering such splendid home sites the choice lots are bound to find a ready market

At the other side of Brightwood addition fronting on Mt Vernon av is the finest record of development of subdivision in a short period Brightwood was placed on the market two years ago and today its principal streets—Elmwood dr and Brightwood dr are finished thoroughfares with light gas and water all available and preparations now being made to pave both streets this fall Council has passed all necessary legislation for the paving of these streets Some of the finest new homes in the city have been built here Five additional lot owners are now planning construction of homes in this area They plan to start active work this summer Dr R C Price began construction today of a fine modern home Both Elmwood dr and Brightwood dr lead back to Marion's finest historic treasure Indian Mound

Boulevard at South

On the south the addition joins the boulevard system of the Harding Memorial The entire area covered by Brightwood addition is within easy walking distance of the heart of Marion

Miss Genevieve Hummer has been the active head of the sale and development of Brightwood addition She has been assisted by Hayes Thompson The company has been known as the Landscape Architecture Co with offices at 807 Mt Vernon av and the Marion County Bank building

BOARD WILL PUBLISH OHIO REALTY ROSTER

List of All Licensed Brokers in State To Be Issued by Examiners

COLUMBUS April 27—A roster containing the names and addresses of all licensed real estate brokers in Ohio will be published this year by the State Board of Real Estate Examiners according to an announcement just made by S C Leake secretary of the board The roster last year was published by the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards in cooperation with the state department due to the fact that no state appropriation was available for the service

At a conference of officials of the state association of real estate boards and the state license department a decision was reached that this service should be performed by the state and an appropriation was requested for this purpose which was later approved It was pointed out that a large surplus reverts to the state treasury each year from the real estate license law department and that treasury each year from the real estate license law department and the brokers of the state are entitled to the roster as service from the state department

The real estate association will cooperate with the license department in every way possible in the compiling and distribution of this list it was announced by Ray Hoffford State secretary

RULES IN RECREATION BALL CHANGED

STATUS OF GAME HERE APPROACHES THAT OF BASEBALL

Regulations Governing Foul Ball, Infield Fly Are Reversed

BY BOB ELLIOTT

RECREATION ball in Marion is rapidly approaching the status of baseball governed entirely by the rules of National and American league play as all rules as a result of drastic changes made by the commission at the session held last night at the Y M C A. There are practically no changes of any major importance regarding play in Marion recreation ball which differ greatly from the hard ball rules as a result of the meeting last night was without a doubt the most important that the commission has held this year Eleven out of 13 members were present with one of the missing sick in a Cleveland hospital

Foul Infield Fly Is Changed

From a player's standpoint as well as of the spectator the most important changes were those affecting the foul ball on an infield hit and the infield fly Last year the commission voted to eliminate the infield fly rule At the suggestion of the rules committee the commission put the infield fly rule back into effect this season

The second paragraph under rule 16 last year was stricken from the rules This rule provided that Any batted ball that settles on foul territory in a fair hit except a ground ball should it roll from foul to fair territory between home and first and home and third and remain there is a fair hit This was changed so that a ball which hits between home and first and home and third on foul ground and then rolls into fair territory before it reaches either first or third base it is still a foul ball

Can Change

Under a supplementary ruling made by the commission last night a player will be permitted to change from one church team to another during the season Last year the commission ruled that a player could play with one and only one church team during the same season This summer with the written consent of the pastor or superintendent of the church from which he wishes to change and with the O K of the commission he may play on another team after attending the allotted three successive Sundays at the church with whose team he is going to play This rule also applies to two or more teams within the same church such as Epworth will have this season A player desiring to change from one team to another within the same church will be allowed to do so under the rules that were in effect before

However the following rule which was in effect last year was kept in effect by the commission over the contrary advice of the rules committee

No player shall be eligible to play on any team whose name has not appeared in a box score previous to July 1 The commission will probably interpret this rule as meaning that any player whose name has not appeared in a box score previous to July 1, will not be eligible to compete with this team during the remainder of the season

Must File Each Month

Sections b h and j of rule 40 were stricken out and the following rule substituted On or before the first Tuesday of each month until September 1 a report showing the attendance or non attendance of the players on the various Sunday school teams during the previous month shall be filed with the secretary of the commission This rule replaces the combination of the rules which were crossed out.

Rule 34 has been given the following addition to further explain its

WEATHER FAVORABLE AS SIMPSON TRIES FOR NEW DASH MARK

Sturdy Expected To Pass Pole Vault Record at Penn Relays

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—World's records in the 100 yard dash and pole vault tottered on their pedestals today as clear weather and fair footing greeted the finale of the Pennsylvania relay carnival at Franklin field. The games will sponsor what is figured to be the sprint classic of the year with the meeting of George Simpson, world's record maker and Jack Elder the only man to start and finish ahead of Percy Williams in one and the same race.

This very hasty duo will go to the post with a great field in the 100 yard dash and if the winner doesn't touch Simpson's 9 to 10 seconds performance of last week it won't be due to a lack of inspiration.

And so it will be in the pole vault where Sturdy the 14 foot man from Yale, will take issue with Vic Pickard of Pittsburgh who cracked 14 feet 10 inches last winter. McAtee, Michigan State, Stewart, Georgia Tech and Mantz, Ohio State. If any human being is capable of a 14 feet two inch vault it is reasonable to expect that he will be on Franklin field this afternoon.

These constitute the only major records in danger unless it be that Lewis Norris, the one man tent show really has a chance at his own three mile record in a race against the watch or that Leo Lermond can run one mile under the American record of 4 12 3-5 which is possible but not highly probable.

HIRAM BEATS MOUNT

ALLIANCE, April 27.—In the opening game of the season which was featured by ragged playing and costly errors on the part of both teams, the Hiram college baseball team defeated Mount Union here yesterday 7 to 0.

FERRELL GIVES TRIBE 11-5 VICTORY OVER TIGERS; REDS LOSE

Jess Haines Holds Cincy to Four Hits in 9-2 Contest

WESLEY C. FERRELL, the 21 year-old rookie pitcher of the Cleveland Indians is today boasting of a record of three wins out of three starts this season following his 11 to 5 victory over the hard hitting Detroit Tigers in the final game of the series which the Bengals copped by two out of three.

Ferrell allowed the Bengals to touch his fast ball for a total of 12 hits. He had to step pretty fast clear up until the final frame when the tribe assaulted the deliveries of Lil Stoner and Elam Van Gilder for six big runs. The Tribe socked out a grand total of 20 hits of which Charlie Jamieson and Joie Sewell man aged to get four each.

* * *

Cincinnati finally opened up St. Louis home season but would have been better off had they let it stay closed. When the final score was hung up it was found that the Cards, behind some excellent Jess Haines pitching had taken the game by a score of 9 to 2. Four measly hits the Reds took off Mr. Haines including one home run by Hughie Critz. The Cards socked the well known deliveries of Pete Donohue, Sid May and Eppa Rixey for 17 solid smashes. These included six doubles, a triple and a four base drive by Earl Smith. The Reds huge total of hits were divided evenly between Critz, Wilker, Kelly and Ettenger. Every man on the Red Birds socked out at least one safe blow while most of them got at least two.

Today the Indians were in Chicago to battle the White Sox while the Reds were facing the not too enjoyable task of trying to hit the pitching of Pete Alexander and Splitting Hairs Doak in the same afternoon. This bargain bill is the first of the season in both loops. Adolfo Luque will hurl the first game while Kenneth Ash will pitch the second.

BRAVO

Braves Take Measure of New York Yanks

THE Philadelphia Athletics, who kicked themselves out of the American league pennant last year when they dropped 10 out of 22 starts to the Yankees, had shed their inferiority complex as they faced the New Yorkers in Dallie today. By trimming the world's champions yesterday 9 to 6, the Mackmen made it two wins in three starts against the Huggmen this year and now hold undisputed possession of first place.

* * *

HERB PENNOCK making his first start for the Yanks since Hoyt was crippled his pitching arm last August was knocked out in the sixth after being nicked for 10 hits.

* * *

THE Yanks got only six hits off Jack Quinn who was canned nearly 15 years ago by the New York club because he was alleged to be too old. Quinn would have scored a more decisive victory had not the Yanks pulled the first triple play of the season in the sixth inning. With the bases full Hale's grounder was converted into a double play and Cochrane was picked off third base for the third out.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL ENTERED IN ALL BUT 3 EVENTS AT MEET

Marion Winners May Be Entered in Ohio State Relays Next Week

BY KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor The Star

Fifteen athletes this morning joined the Red and Black of Harding high school as the eliminatory heats of the North Central Ohio invitational track and field meet opened at Mansfield with 18 teams competing.

The local team left for Mansfield at 7:15 o'clock this morning. The meet will be Harding's first interscholastic event this season and will mark the return of track as a popular sport in the local school.

Harding is represented in 10 events. Two relay teams from the local school are entered in each of the 10 events. The Red and Black will not compete in the discus throw, the hurdles and the relay.

Harding's best chances of placing are in the shot put in the jumping events and the dashes. On the whole the cadre of the team is uncertain as it has never appeared in interscholastic competition.

Two promising young trackmen who are looked upon as comers will not take part, being unable to make the trip. They are Weber, broad and high jumper and Wright, middle distance runner.

In case any members of the team make a showing in the Mansfield meet it is likely that they will be entered in the Ohio State relays at Columbus next Friday and Saturday. On May 11 the local team will take part in a meet sponsored by Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware.

Following are the entries in the various classes at Mansfield today:

100 yd. dash—McCulloch and Lutzle.

220 yd. dash—Shipley and Hatermann.

110 yd. dash—Tuttle and Shipley.

Half mile—Crawford and Bush.

Mile run—Zimmer and Williams.

High Jump—McCulloch and Terry.

Broad jump—Terry and Hatermann.

Shot put—Orr and Thompson.

Pole vault—Hunsicker and Barnhart.

Javelin—Cookston and Terry.

HAVING captured up a lit during the last week and defeating Minnesota's nine two days in a row, the Ohio State baseball team will attempt to raise its standing in the western conference pennant race by downing the first tilful outfit this afternoon. The two victories over the Gophers on Monday and Tuesday marked the first conference victories of the Scarlet and Gray nine.

RISKO SIGNS TO MEET EMMET ROCCO MAY 7

CLEVELAND, April 27.—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight boxer and one of the leading contenders for the world's title, has signed to meet Emmet Rocco of Lawrence City, Pa., in a 12 round bout here May 7. It has been announced by Matt Hinkle, promoter.

Joe Goodman, Cleveland and Jack Duffy of Toledo were signed for a six round semi final bout.

CLEVELAND, TOLEDO FIGHT STABLES TO SHOW HERE MONDAY

Jack Keller and Frankie Kaeth Feature Eagles' Card

CLEVELAND and Toledo fight stables will exhibit their wares at Eagles hall Monday night when the final indoor professional fight show of the season will be staged.

Featuring the card will be Jack Keller of Toledo and Frankie Kaeth of Cleveland. These boys will travel over the eight round route and are scheduled to tip the scales at 145 pounds.

The semi final from the standpoint of action promises to be just as interesting as the main go. Fans recollect a small taste of the work of Lee Meredith here earlier in the month and Monday night he will be in the ring against a tougher opponent. The Toledo boy has been matched for an eight round fight with Jack Berger of Cleveland. These lads fight at 158 pounds.

While Meredith, brother of Lee, is matched with Al Newman of Cleveland in a six round preliminary, Wildcat Maloney of Marion will go six rounds with Johnnie Sanders of Cleveland in the first preliminary event.

Two Marion boys will be seen in the curtain raiser with Bob Hudson going four rounds with K. O. Smith.

GARDNER MEET

NEW YORK, April 27.—Columbia and the Navy will open the intercollegiate rowing season in the east in deadly earnest today when their powerful varsity eight oared crews clash in a two mile race on the Harlem river. Simultaneously Princeton and the surprising M. I. T. oarsmen will battle in a race of hardly less importance on the Charles river basin at Boston.

Traces of Unsettlement Leaves Market as Traders Buy Stocks

BEARS UNABLE TO FORCE ISSUES DOWN

Week-End Money Pinch Sends Rate Up to 16 Per Cent.

REVIEWS OPTIMISTIC

Copper, Rail and Manufacturing Stocks Pushed Up at Opening

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, April 27—There was little trace of Friday's unsettlement in the stock market in today's short session of the market. Both the professionals and the outside traders were ready to buy stocks, while the bears were apparently frightened off by their inability to upset the market when the week-end pinch in the money market drove the call loan rate to 16 percent.

A dozen or more of the popular copper, railroad and manufacturing stocks were pushed up a point or two when buying demand struck the market at the opening.

The bankers explained the tight money situation by the heavy preparations for the May first settlements and saw nothing unusual in the week-end pinch in the call market. Within a week at the most the money paid out by the banks will be coming back in full force seeking employment and the rates will move down. Wealth, health and prosperity for the American people was the key-note of the week-end financial and business reviews.

Renewal of buying demand for the copper was seen in the strength and activity of Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting and Cerro De Pasco. The rails moved up under the lead of Erie and New Haven, the latter advancing two points to another new high record near 101. Columbia Graphophone, Hayes Body, United Aircraft, Corn Products, American and Foreign Power and other star performers of the early part of the week pushed ahead under expert pool control. Pierce Arrow and Packard led a moderate advance in the motor stocks, which was shared by the motor accessories, including Hayes body, Murray corporation and Briggs.

Bulls Try To Push Prices

NEW YORK, April 27 — Bulls in the stock market made another strenuous effort this week to push prices of their favorites to higher levels, with the hope and expectation of enticing back the most of speculators who were frozen out by the sharp decline in the market in the last week of March. With the usual blare of the trumpets they churned up the speculative favorites violently in two 4,000,000 share sessions and would have succeeded much better than they did if the money market had not balked on them.

It required only moderate calling of loans by the banks to force the call rate up to 12 per cent and to stiffen the time loan rate to 8½ per cent. The weekly brokers' loan statement showed a $87,000,000 increase in loans to the members of the stock exchange. The event of the week in the foreign money markets was the advance of the German reichsbank rate from 6½ to 7½ per cent, as a defensive measure against the shipment of gold out of Germany.

Sharp advances in a score or more of the old favorites in the steel, motor car, oil and specialty stocks in the fore part of the week signaled the return of the big bulls to their old haunts in Wall street. After stewing the financial district thick with rumors and tips of all kinds, they resumed their usual activities on the big board and bought stocks hand over fist in blocks of 10,000 and upward. For the first time in history, a 100,000-share block of stock passed through the market in a single transaction. New gains of 10 to 15 points were scored in a hand-picked list of industrial shares, but the usual complaint about a "thin market" was heard as soon as the pools and professionals attempted to pass along their new acquisitions in the distributing process.

Cotton

NEW YORK, April 27—Recoveries of 5 to 9 points were registered at the opening of the cotton market today. May sold at 19.58, July 18.85C, October 18.89C, October (new) 18.90C, December 19.03C, January 19.00C and March 19.11C.

LOCAL STOCK SALES

Marion Steam Shovel Co. common stock, which has shown a steady trend in this week's transactions on the New York curb market, closed at 29 in Friday's sales, which totalled 200 shares. The stock opened at that figure, the high for the day, and stood at 28 3-4 at the lowest point.

WEEK BRINGS FEW NEW MARKET ITEMS

Same Variety of Fruits and Vegetables Appears on Local Stands

There were but few new items on Marion meat and produce markets this week. Practically the same variety of fruits and vegetables was offered, with but few price changes.

After several weeks of continued high levels, ment prices on local markets took a spill. Dried beef, ranging in price from 67-70 cents is now selling at 65-75 cents as a result of the drop of pork chops formerly ranging from 34-37 cents and pound may now be purchased between 22-35 cents. Boiling beef dropped from 22 to 19 cents, chuck roast from 37 cents to 25, neckbones from 11 to 9 cents.

Lemons made a rather startling gain in price. The approach of the lemonade season is partially blamed for this. Hothouse cucumbers gained from 15 to 20 cents.

Strawberries registered a number of price changes during the week. Last Saturday they were selling at 10 cents a quart. On Monday they jumped to 25 cents, on Tuesday they dropped to 21 cents and yesterday they dropped back to the 10 cent level.

Head lettuce dropped from 15 cents a head to two heads for 25 cents. Yellow wax beans were selling at 25 cents as the result of a three cent drop; Hothouse tomatoes now sell between 20 and 25 cents; butter dropped from 53 to 51 cents a pound.

Leaf lettuce sought high levels Thursday when this item shot from 15 to 20 cents a pound. Green onions appeared on local markets, three for a dime.

RULES DIRECTOR CAN PAY FOR PURE BRED CATTLE

COLUMBUS, April 27—The state director o agriculture is authorized to pay, from state funds, proper amounts to owners of pure bred cattle condemned for slaughter because of tuberculosis even when the association in which such cattle are registered is not named in rules adopted by the state board of agriculture, provided such registry is accurate and reliable. This ruling was given today by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman to Perry L. Green, director of agriculture.

PAUL SIMPSON WINS LAP, STRENGTHENING POSITION

ROLLA, Mo., April 27—C. C. Pyle's bunion derby left Rolla today for Waynesville, Mo., the twenty-eighth control point.

Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., won the twenty-seventh lap of the foot-race yesterday running the 45.3 miles from Sullivan, Mo., in 6:03:10, thereby strengthening his hold on fifth place, in elapsed time. Giusto Umek of Italy was second. The three leaders, Pete Gavuzzi, John Salo, and Ed Gardner, finished deadlocked for third place

ARCH MANLEY HELD ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Arch Manley, of Agosta, was charged with assault and battery in an affidavit filed in municipal court here this morning by T. T. Hickman, operator of a poolroom at Agosta. Hickman charges that Manley "struck him, wounded him, choked him, and threatened him with death."

meaning "This 15 day eligibility rule shall govern all the leagues except the Sunday school leagues, which have their own eligibility rules."

Other minor changes that were made included: Keeping in effect Rule 30; striking out paragraph under rule 20; striking out section one, rule one.

Set Playing Nights

About the only other thing of major importance that the commission had on its hands last night was to place the various teams in the four leagues. It was decided to play the leagues on the same nights as last season. The grounds committee reported that the diamond at Garfield park would be in good shape for the opening of the season. On Monday nights for Sunday school league No. 2, the following grounds will be used: Garfield, Central, Lincoln and Steam Shovel. On the other three nights the same diamonds will be used with the exception of Central being replaced by Fairfield. The list of the leagues with their quota of teams appears elsewhere on this page.

President Crissinger called a meeting of the commission for 8 o'clock Monday night. This will be the final meeting before the start of the season. Final reports will be made at this time. All the captains and managers of the various teams in the four leagues will be invited to this meeting to discuss all changes in the rules

NEAR $100,000

Bank clearings lacked but a few hundred dollars of bumping the $100,000 mark yesterday for the first time in 10 days, when the total was $99,130.55. A week ago the clearings were $78,723.14.

NOMINATIONS MADE

The ladies auxiliary to Buckeye Aerie No. 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles, met last night, received 17 applications for membership and balloted on 21. Nomination of officers was held and plans made for a class to be taken in at a regular meeting May 10. Lunch was served by a committee headed by Mrs. Herman Ferduer.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Yesterday's prices for products now on Marion meat and produce markets will rule over the week-end, dealers said today. No change from Friday's list was reported.

Meat items are all steady, ranging from as high as 75 cents a pound, for dried beef to nine cents a pound for neck-bone. Chuck roasts are selling between 25 and 27 cents a pound.

Yellow wax beans were standing at 25 cents a pound this morning. They make an appetizing side dish, as do fresh peas, now selling at 27 cents a pound.

Grapefruit season is drawing to a close, and before many weeks this item will entirely disappear from the market. They are now selling three for 25 cents. Oranges, now selling from 19 to 69 cents a dozen, are popular.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAINS

CHICAGO, April 27—Wheat prices moved actively over an erratic course yesterday, but finished without material change from the previous close. May September and December wheat sold at new lows, while July touched the previous low. A sharp rally followed the opening but demand was filled around the rest of the price ices and the market sagged off. Corn was lower early, advanced with wheat and maintained most of the upturn

Closing prices showed wheat 1-8c lower to 1-4c higher. Corn was 7-8@1c up; oats, 1-16@3-4c higher, and rye 5-8@1 1-2c up. Winnipeg wheat futures finished 1@1-2c higher.

Shorts Buy Wheat

Passage of the farm relief bill in the house, a recovery in Liverpool prices, that market closing 1-16@5-8d higher, and a firm tone at Winnipeg were advanced as the reasons for the buying which rallied wheat prices more than a cent from the low by mid-session. However, buying was mainly by shorts and the market failed to show much follow up, with the result that moderate selling around privilege price stopped the advance. Demand was less active from then on, and prices slid back gradually to the previous day's close.

Sentiment continued very bearish, and aside from the little news which promoted the bulge near mid-session there was nothing to encourage the speculative holder. If there was any export business put through, it was insignificant in volume, seaboard advices said. Wires from export circles expressed surprise that the previous day's break had not worked more wheat. Some buying of futures here was credited to export account.

Corn Weak at Start

Crop reports continued highly optimistic, and weather forecasts indicate favorable weather for most of the belt. Weekly North American clearances were only 6,375,000 bu. compared with 10,025,000 bu for the corresponding week at year ago, according to Bradstreet's

The corn market was weak at the opening under pressure of scattered selling. With the advance in wheat prices, the market rallied from there on stayed in higher ground, the advance being better maintained than in wheat. Trade continued rather quiet, but commission house buying was fair on the bulge.

Weather over the belt continues rather unsettled and offerings to arrive small, with no bookings reported. Primary receipts have been running very light all week and shipments have been heavy, suggesting decreasing stocks. Spot demand was quiet in the local market, but shipping demand was again good, with sales of 172,000 bu reported.

In the cash market wheat was steady; corn unchanged to ½c higher; oats steady to ½c off; rye dull, and barley steady.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 15; corn, 91; oats, 70; rye, 1, and barley, 15

TOOTS AND CASPER — CASPER'S EYE FOR BEAUTY — BY JIMMY MURPHY

I EXPECTED TOOTS WOULD BLOW UP WITH JEALOUSY WHEN I TOLD HER I USED TO BE SWEET ON "PEGGY FLUFFINGTON," BUT SHE JUST LAUGHED! IT GOT MY GOAT - I'M CERTAINLY WORTH GETTING JEALOUS OVER!
I'M TELLING YOU, TOOTS - PEGGY WAS A BEAUTY - WAIT UNTIL YOU SEE HER! SHE WAS A LITTLE TRICK - JUST A LITTLE DOLL!
I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE YOU EVER HAD A GIRL BEFORE ME, CASPER! YOU CERTAINLY DIDN'T ACT EXPERIENCED WHEN I MET YOU! WHEN I USED TO HINT THAT MY HANDS WERE COLD INSTEAD OF HOLDING THEM YOU HANDED ME MY MUFF
OH THEN YOU'RE NOT INTERESTED IN MY PAST, "TOOTS"?
IF YOUR FUTURE ISN'T ANY WORSE THAN YOUR PAST YOU'LL NEVER NEED TO BEAR WATCHING! IT'S NO COMPLIMENT IF I'M THE ONLY GIRL YOU EVER MET, BUT IT IS A COMPLIMENT IF YOU PICKED ME FROM AMONG A SCORE OF GORGEOUS GIRLS AS THE ONE GIRL YOU COULDN'T LIVE WITHOUT!
TOOTS MAY CHANGE HER TUNE WHEN SHE SEES HOW PRETTY PEGGY IS! WHENEVER I GAVE A GIRL A TUMBLE SHE HAD CLASS - THE PRETTIER THEY WERE THE HARDER THEY FELL FOR ME! THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT ME! MAYBE IT'S THAT TRICKY LITTLE SPARKLE IN MY EYE!
WE CAN HARDLY WAIT FOR PRETTY "PEGGY" FLUFFINGTON TO PUT IN HER APPEARANCE! EVERYBODY WANTS TO TAKE A LOOK AT CASPER'S FIRST FLAME. 88

SELL THROUGH THE CLASSIFIED ADS

Miscellaneous ? ? ? ?

Have you ever thought of the money you have tied up in all those things you have stored away in the basement? Things that are just junk to you but valuable to somebody else because they have a need for them. You're been wanting a new bedroom suite—but the price is a little more than you can afford to pay.

Well, why don't you sell that old fashioned bed stored in the basement and put the money in on a new suite? The old electric fan, lawn mower, stoves and what not that you have no earthly use for can all be sold by inserting an Ad in The Star's Classified Section.

Everything can be pictured more alluringly—yet truthfully—on the printed page and when your prospective buyer phones you he is coming to look at them, you can drag them out of the basement into more pleasant surroundings.

Women are learning that the comfortable way to shop is at home on their cool verandas.

They glance through OUR ADS and find just what they want and then make purchases.

Only 8 Spanish War Vets Answer Annual Roll Call

TOP SERGEANT JAMES E. MESSENGER was facing the company It was under the blazing sun at Guayama Porto Rico Company G of the Fourth Ohio Voluntary Infantry, was answering the roll as it was called by the sergeant.

But that was 31 years ago Last night Sergeant Messenger again called the roll of Company G Attendance differed greatly from that 31 years ago. Only eight answered "here" last night

These eight members of Company G who answered the roll call last night were in attendance at the annual muster day celebration of Marion Lamp No 92 United Spanish War Veterans

About 100 persons, including members of company G and other veterans of the war of 1898 and members of the Relay Ross auxiliary attended the celebration The sun at affair was held in the American Legion dugout on High st

A dinner at 6 30 o'clock opened the ceremonies Following the dinner the veterans again took the oath that made them members of the United States Army 31 years ago.

The principal speaker was the Rev Herbert L Woodmueller pastor of the First Reformed church Musical numbers were other features of the program

10 "CONVICTS" TURN OUT TO BE SHRINERS

Initiation of Candidates Starts Rumors of 'Capture" of Men

COLUMBUS April 27— Ten convicts captured was the telephoned report gasped out to International News Service this morning

Yes thanks" the desk man replied and then pivoting rapidly in his swivel chair he barked out a few orders and the machinery of news gathering began functioning

Not pausing for a breath he turned to the telephones again and then began checking with police penitentiary and county authorities

The report dashed out and then it was explained that the 10 convicts all dressed in striped suits were none other than 10 candidates who were initiated into the Aladdin Shrine a Masonic organization. They were made to parade in the convict suits as a part of their initiation The convict delegation was headed by Judge Harold Kime of this city

Between 7 000 and 8 000 Shriners interned this city today to take part in the spring ceremonial at which 100 new candidates will be taken into the order
